MEETINGS.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF NEW SOUTH WALES. The annual general meeting of the members of the Royal Society of New South Wales was held at the society's house, Elizabeth-street, North, last evening. The chair was occupied by the president (Sir Alfred Roberts). There was a fair attendance. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed.

The Hon. Treasurer (Mr. Robert Hunt) read the financial statement—a reference to which is made below—which showed a balance of £1,600,000. A large number of donations to the account of books and pamphlets had been received since the previous meeting.

The President drew special attention to the following donations, viz.—1. Mr. Powell and Leeland's £1,000; 2. Mr. A. Wright. It was unanimously resolved that a special vote of thanks be conveyed to Dr. Wright, his very valuable donation being interleaved throughout the Mathematical papers and drawings presented to the society by Mr. D. M. Nalland. Letters were read from Robert L. J. Ellery, Government Astronomer of Victoria, acknowledging the award of the Clarke medal, and from Prof. W. H. Christie, of the Adelaide University, and Captain G. W. Huston of the Canterbury College, Christchurch, N.Z., acknowledging their election as honorary members of the society.

The President then announced the section committee—Mathematics—as follows:—Dr. H. G. Wright, Chairman; Dr. Crago, Vice-chairman; Dr. W. MacCormick and Dr. Jenkins; committee, Dr. P. Sydney Jones, Dr. W. H. Goods, Dr. E. Fairfax Rose, Dr. W. Chisholm, Dr. Alfred Bedford, Dr. Knaggs, Mr. Percy J. Edmunds; committee, Dr. H. G. A. Wright, Mr. A. P. Bedford, Mr. T. Bradley, and Mr. T. Whitelocke.

The section committee and council for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—President, Professor Liveridge, M.A., F.R.S.; Vice-presidents, Sir Alfred Roberts and Mr. P. R. Peasey; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Robert Hunt, C.M.G., F.R.S.; Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. G. Smith; Professors, Mr. W. Christie, F.R.S.; Members of Council, Mr. W. A. Dixson, F.R.S.; Dr. A. Leslie, M.A., F.C.S.; Mr. Charles Moore, F.L.S.; Mr. H. C. Russell, B.A., F.R.S.; Dr. H. G. Wright, Dr. J. Edmunds, Mr. R. E. Fairfax Rose, Mr. D. M. Nalland, Mr. T. Bradley, and Mr. T. Whitelocke.

The section committee and council for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—President, Professor Liveridge, M.A., F.R.S.; Vice-presidents, Sir Alfred Roberts and Mr. P. R. Peasey; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Robert Hunt, C.M.G., F.R.S.; Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. G. Smith; Professors, Mr. W. Christie, F.R.S.; Members of Council, Mr. W. A. Dixson, F.R.S.; Dr. A. Leslie, M.A., F.C.S.; Mr. Charles Moore, F.L.S.; Mr. H. C. Russell, B.A., F.R.S.; Dr. H. G. Wright, Dr. J. Edmunds, Mr. R. E. Fairfax Rose, Mr. D. M. Nalland, Mr. T. Bradley, and Mr. T. Whitelocke.

The President then delivered the annual address. After expressing his sense of the honour the members had done him by electing him to the high office of president he proceeded to explain the objects of that association which the Royal Society of New South Wales had risen to its present position, and alluded to the formation of the "Australian Society" for the advancement of science and the first meeting of that association in London in January, 1888.

The President then said that the association had decided that the question of taxation would have to be referred to each other who were disturbed by several causes.

The principal of these were the celebration of the centenary of the colony in January, 1888, and the declaration of weights for the year of March of that year—these events constituting an exceptional revenue to 1888 of £10,000.

This year, on the contrary, events generally tended to decrease the revenue, and the reduction in the amount of taxation which the section committee would have to submit to the V.R.C. for approval was evident to earnings, £6,600.

wipe out the deficit, for the Treasury bills, having once been issued, would have to be provided for.

The experience of our correspondent "Mercator" is probably in accordance with that of other men of the world who have taken a considerate view of first offences. It may possibly have been contrary to that of some, but there is little doubt that others who have acted on similar principles have witnessed similar results. It would probably be a mistake to follow out the same line of action indiscriminately in private life, and in like manner the system contained in the Offenders' Probation Bill would require to be worked with a wise discretion, and not with unvarying and indiscriminate uniformity, if it is to produce beneficial results. Experience in private life has shown that there are cases in which a probationary system, that gives an offender the opportunity of amendment, instead of subjecting him to punishment and disgrace, has a marvellous power of reinforcing his better nature, and enabling him to turn away from or to resist the temptations to which he has yielded before. And what has happened in private will happen again in connection with the public administration of justice if such merciful action as is provided in Mr. Abbott's bill be taken in suitable cases. The principle may not be applicable to all cases. It would operate mischievously in some, but in others it would lead to the rescue of useful lives from impending ruin. We ought not to be deterred by the risk on the one side from hopefully endeavouring to do good on the other. Everyone who breaks the law or falls into crime is not actuated by settled and persistent tendencies to criminality; but some are, and the point to be observed is that every case should be carefully inquired into, so that the effect of a probationary system may be tried where there is a fair promise of good results, but may not be tried where the circumstances indicate that the concession would be wasted, or abused. A first conviction is not always or necessarily the consequence of a sudden lapse, but very often it may be; and if this bill should pass into law, it will be the duty of the administrators of justice to ascertain by careful inquiry to which class each case that is brought before them belongs. By such means only can they judge whether the sentence that follows conviction should be suspended or carried into execution.

Owing to the absence of hon. members from town yesterday afternoon, at the opening of the Hawkesbury bridge, the Legislative Assembly did not meet until 8 o'clock, when there was about an average attendance. The Speaker announced that the Governor had assented to the Temporary Supply Bill. The 11 questions on the paper were supplied, and some were deferred, while others were postponed. Mr. Paul presented a petition praying for leave to bring in a bill to provide for the establishment of cattle sale yards at Bathurst. Some papers were laid on the table of the House, including the quarterly report of the Commissions for Railways and Tramways. Mr. O'Sullivan asked, without notice, when the Government would lay on the table the report from the Casual Labour Board Committee. Sir Henry Parkes, in reply, pointed out that the report had gone through the hands of the Governor, and his Excellency had been out of town that day. The report, therefore, had not yet been returned to him.

A quarter-past 8 o'clock yesterday the Legislative Assembly resolved itself into Committee of Ways and Means, for the continuation of the financial debate. Mr. McMillan took the opportunity to make an explanation respecting his scheme for the extinction of the deficit, instead of waiting until he introduced the bill. He said there seemed to be some impression abroad that the intention of his scheme was to force unfairly, and to the disadvantage of the public funds, valuable suburban lands into the market. He denied that such was the case. But he said that these lands should be taxed at a rate which would allow of their withdrawal from sale. None would attempt to say that the Government should lease lands of small area for private settlement. He took it that the House agreed to the principle that these lands should be sold, but not rushed into the market, and not into the hands of syndicates. The original error had arisen from the fact that he made the currency of the Treasury bills five years, but his reason was that at the end of five years they might have a surplus in the hands of the Treasurer, and the credit of the country would enable them at the end of seven years to par with the rest of the world under favourable circumstances. He intended to make a term of 15 years for the sale of these lands. That, however, was a matter of detail, and if the House wished to make it 20 or 25 years, he had no objection. But the point was that the land being in the hands of commissioners, they would not force these lands into the market at unreasonable prices. The central feature of his scheme was to have a certain asset, or a redemption fund, which would ultimately wipe out the deficit.

The financial debate in the Legislative Assembly was resumed by Mr. Toohey, who contended that the financial account of Mr. Garvan was correct, while he condemned those of Mr. McMillan. He also deprecated the Treasurer's plan for extinguishing the deficit. Mr. Frank Smith, while supporting the Government generally, would support the proposal for the sale of the suburban lands. Mr. A. Brown and Mr. A. Beckett criticised the Treasurer's statements. Mr. Copland objected to the Treasurer's proposals, and suggested the imposition of a 10 per cent ad valorem duty. Some discussion took place on the proposal to adjourn the debate; but at length the motion was agreed to, with the understanding that the debate is to be finished to-night. The House adjourned at midnight.

Five deputations will wait upon the Colonial Secretary to-day. The first, at 10.30, is from the Prospect and Sherwood Municipality, who will ask for a grant of money to expand upon a road in the district. The second, at 11, is from the Borough of Balmain, in reference to the erection of a Park for a recreation ground. The next is from Liverpool, with reference to the loop-line of railway, at 11.30. At 12 there will be a deputation of the directors of the Prince Alfred Hospital, in reference to metropolitan hospital accommodation. The last, at 12.30, is from the Hamilton Borough Council, with reference to the disposal of night soil. The Minister for Public Works will have three deputations. First, from the Alexandria Borough Council, at 11, in regard to a sewer. Next from Parramatta, at 1.30, with respect to the deepening of the Parramatta River, and the re-opening of the foreshore. The last is from Waverley, at noon, on the subject of the sewerage scheme and the local tramways.

It is expected that the inward-bound mail steamer Zembla, from San Francisco, will arrive this afternoon. She will be berthed at Cawler Wharf on arrival.

The departure of the branch steamer Tasman was put off from time to time yesterday, until eventually the hour was postponed until this morning, when the steamer will leave for Noumea. The cause was the non-receipt of a telegram from Albany of the arrival of the company's steamer Sydney from Marseilles. The Sydney was reported during the afternoon, and it is noteworthy with what punctuality the boats from Marseilles have invariably arrived. Because the Tasman did not leave for Noumea yesterday morning inquiries were made on all sides, her departure having hitherto been most prompt to be advertised date.

To-morrow week it may be taken that the flagship H.M.S. Orlando will leave for Adelaide. According to a telegram received yesterday from the Governor of South Australia, the Earl of Kimberley is to be vice-admiral. Lieutenant Fairlie, C.H. It is intended that the Caliph will also go round to Adelade, should the ship be ready, and no doubt no trouble will be spared to make her so.

It will be with some degree of sorrow that the cable news of the loss of the steamer Cotopaxi will be received by the shipping community. One of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's finest ships, she made a name for the Orient Company years ago, and, with the Potou in 1873, was regarded as the best of the line in the trade to the coasts. How the company of which these boats were in a sense pioneers has advanced is sufficiently well known in these days of the Oroya, Orum, and steamers of that class.

The Sydney Church Congress resumed its sitting yesterday, a special conservation service being held in the morning at the cathedral, when the Venerable Archdeacon Dawson was consecrated as Assistant Bishop of Brisbane. The ceremony, which was largely attended, was of a most impressive character, and was remarkable for being the first consecration service ever held in Queensland.

The afternoon session of the Congress was held in the Hall of the Church of the Church and Modera Thought" was considered; and in the latter building the "Observance of the Lord's Day" was the subject for discussion.

The Rev. J. R. Blomfield, Church of England priest, died rather suddenly yesterday from apoplexy. He burst a blood-vessel on the brain. He was quite well on Tuesday, and was about town. Early yesterday morning Mr. Blomfield, jun., heard loud breathing in his room. She went in and found him unconscious, with blood oozing from his nostrils. Medical aid was called in, but he never rallied, and died about midday. The deceased clergyman was 65 years of age, and was a native of the colony, having been born at Maidstone. He was ordained in 1849. He accepted the position of incumbent of All Saints, Parramatta, in 1862, and remained till 1866, when he was appointed to the Colonial Lodge to the Empire Masonic Lodge to the Colonial lodges offering to entertain distinguished Masons visiting England.

DEATH OF CARL ROSA.

LONDON, APRIL 30.

Carl Rosa, who was born at Hamburg in 1842, made his debut as a violinist at the age of 8, and afterwards became a pupil in the Conservatoire of Leipzig. After his studies he conducted a successful English opera season in the United States (71-72), he returned to England, and, after a series of successful performances in the leading provincial towns, commenced in '75 an English opera season at the Princess's. In '76 he took the Lyceum, and subsequently the Adelphi and Her Majesty's Theatres, for the former purpose. He has produced some of the masterpieces of Wagner with descriptive notes as to habits, distribution, &c. The remaining one of the four subjects for the year which expired on May 1, 1888, is "On the Silver Ore Deposits of New South Wales," which he has now completed. The critic selected for this review, in Cincinnati, is as follows:—"The influence of the Australian Climate (general and local) in the Development and Modification of Disease"; "On the Occurrence of Precious Stones in New South Wales, with a Description of the same"; "The Fauna of Port Jackson, with descriptive notes as to habits, distribution, &c." PARISIAN GOSSIP.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, MARCH 22.

Though spring began two days ago at 24 minutes past 10, the numerous promenaders who went to the Champs Elysees to see whether the famous horse-chestnut tree called "The Twentieth of March," in virtue of its habit of shedding a bunch of green leaves on that day, had turned up its legendary reputation, were compelled to admit that it was doing so. Its last-buds are very full, but they have not yet opened, though they are evidently about to let out the beautiful young greenery that Paris is accustomed to welcome as the sign of returning spring.

The criminal proceedings against the leaders of the dissolved "Patriots' League" are still being actively searched for; while as they reluctantly refuse to open their lips when interrogated by the examining magistrate public curiosity is compelled to wait for information until their trial comes on. Will the chief among them, against his staff be made to bring "the General" into court is a question still in abeyance. The latter had promised to accept the grand banquet that had been organised in his honour at Tours for last Sunday; but at half-past 11 on Saturday evening he empowered his lieutenants to pass among the papers devoted to him the notice that he would be "at home" on the following day.

The leaders of the ex-Patriots' League, Derville, Thiebaud, and Rochefort had agreed before their chief that they would allow him to bring his cause in before the public in refusing to give a clear summary of the system he intended to inaugurate when raised to the supreme power, and enjoined upon him to go to Tours and make his declaration at the banquet, the General, at midnight, sent off a telegram announcing that he would be with his friends at the next day's banquet. Accordingly, he proceeded with his zealous henchmen to Tours, and in his after-dinner speech informed the banqueters that his Government would be based on the plenary reply given to him by the four questions which he should submit to them, and that the response to which he should have his administrative. These four points he stated to be as follows:—

1. Do you wish to maintain the Consoriat? 2. Do you wish to have guns in the hospitals? 3. Do you wish to have friars in the Pablis schools? 4. Do you wish to have curates in the parishes?

"To these questions," continued the guest of the evening, "a half million of voters will reply 'no,' and five or six millions will reply 'yes,' and these matters being thus decided, will be put to a small government, in conformity with this decision. And so with all the other questions on which the will of the nation will have been consulted."

"Instead of dreaming of war, as I am accused of doing, I shall ensure peace by the development of industry and commerce, by great public works and great enterprises, as in the first years of the Empire, and the first of these great undertakings will be the formation of the canal between the Channel and the Mediterranean, which will give prosperity to one-quarter of France."

Amidst the enthusiastic applause with which these precocious intimations were received by the dense crowd of banqueters, one domineering general, "Le Lion de la Marne," General de la Motte, in the "Elysée," said, "Né," returned the future Ruler, "l'Elysée has memories quite so soddening. I shall rebuild the Tuilleries; that is where I shall live."

Edicts were made by moderate, peace-loving Republicans under M. Le Lion Sav, Frederic Passy, and others of their way of thinking, to organise, in place of the suppressed "Patriots' League," a "League of Conciliation," whose programme includes rejection of the projected income-tax, repeal of the union between church and state, and the re-establishment of merit in the hospitals, a general introduction of liberty and enlightenment in all departments, and the adoption of the motto "Peace and Labour." There seems, however, but little prospect of the success of this new organisation.

The unparalleled violence of the Chamber at the close of last week under the insults which each faction hurled at all the others led to the immediate putting up of six duels and the threat by the Chief of many afflictions of "censure" on the most furious of the combatants, as the "enemis" are only privy to the movements of the "marche," and also inflicts upon him the cost of publishing 300 copies of the official record of the "censure" on the walls of Paris, there was an active movement of excommunication at the close of the sittings, the members thus threatened putting forward the most ingenious paraphrases of their expressions and the most amiable denials of all offensive intentions. In this eager publishing off too violent expressions of opinion, the six incipient duels were also happily disposed of. But the scenes of excommunication in the Chamber, when the Boulanger member, M. Léon Sav, demanded, amidst tears of mortification, a vote of blame against the Minister of Finance, M. Bouvier, for having helped to bolster up the Comptoir d'Escompte instead of compelling the House of Rothschild to take the entire affair upon its shoulders, and again Prime Minister Tardieu for not forcing his colleague to take this course, instead of getting the Bank of France to advance the amount for avoiding the "krach," was, if possible, even more violent.

The Comptoir d'Escompte has been in fact brought back into existence by a loan of another 40 millions of francs. M. Bouvier, to avoid a panic that might have been a danger for the existing Government as well as for the "Cabinet of the Exhibition," called upon the leading bankers to advance another sum of 20 millions, which with a similar additional advance on the part of the Bank of France, would enable the great financial establishment to recover itself. The Rothschilds thereupon advanced three millions, the Syndical Chamber of Stockholders three millions, the Credit Foncier two millions, other bankers advanced the remainder of the sum required, and the danger of a financial crisis was averted.

M. Tardieu, however, having been enabled to discharge its obligations, has now got rid of the Comptoir d'Escompte, having thus been enabled to discharge its obligations, will be wound up and succeeded by an establishment that will take the name of the New Comptoir d'Escompte. But political animosity has reached, in this city, a degree of virulence that is ready to risk any amount of upsetting and confusion, if only thereby the present Government could be upset or dragged a little further on the road, it is hoped, will end in rule. And the hatred that is here, as elsewhere, so evidently indicated against the Jews, who are now almost entirely excluded from the social life of the country, is a most dangerous factor which will insist upon breaking the Sabbath. "For vengeance is mine, I will repay," saith the Lord of Hosts. Our determination to do our duty, however, makes us determined to submit to the "censure" as far as we can, and to stand by our principles.

Our editor, Mr. Speight, is to leave for Spain on Saturday, to San Sebastian. The affair will evidently be so conducted as to add another historical souvenir to a region of country already rich in such memories.

MELBOURNE IN 1889.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

It is 20 years since I first visited the city, which comes with a larger regard for alliteration than vanity styled "Marvellous Melbourne"—a title speedily and self-compromisingly appropriated and reiterated by the inhabitants thereof, though at present there appears some prospect of "Marvellous Melbourne" usurping the place of the grandiloquent cognomen. I may remark as passed that one miserables ironclad has even beaten the mighty city of Victoria, and during the present year has twice been a sojourner therin, and it has occurred to me that some notes acent the great city may prove interesting alike to those who have and those who have not recent yesterdays and "taken stock" of "Marvellous Melbournes." Journeying thitherwards by sea, the first thing to attract attention is the wretchedary that forms the entrance to the vast expanse of shallow water, superfluously supplied with sandbanks, which, although the port was not, are nevertheless a serious menace for the capital city of South Australia. The mail steamers, with passengers anxious to land, were compelled to lie in the heavy roll of the South Pacific, waiting for daylight so as to dare to exploit the shoals and channels of Port Phillip, a singular drawback, and when, as in the recent case of the Oziria, a giant mail-boat is compelled to brave the perils of a hurricane until it is calm enough for a pilot to scramble on board from a little pilot schooner, the drawback becomes a menace to costly shipping and valuable human life. Instead of the "ironclad" of the Orange Gull, as far as weight is concerned, the mail steamers are a vessel far safer facing the wild buffeting of an Antarctic gale than in seeking shelter in the seaport of Marvellous Melbournes.

Passing up the bay, one steams by the old lime-ship Nelson, the more modern Cerberus, and the recently added gundabs, and as one moored alongside the Williamson pier, even here the port of Melbourne is unattractive, so many of his pictures and books having to be brought back from England and from Brussels, as a bulwark against Russia. He says that France's true course is to remain quiet while awaiting the expected conflagration, and that she will then ensure the eventual offer of "the most brilliant proposal for her co-operation." In other words, probably, for her help to Germany, paid for by the restoration of Alsace-Lorraine. This letter is signed by a man who asserts that in November last, by Gamietta, and the author of a splendid State funeral, and Admiral Kraatz has been replaced at the Ministry of Marine.

The American of Belles Lettres has named the Marquis de L'Orme as president for the next three-monthly term, in honour of his return. It will take the Duke of Orleans some time to restore Chantilly to its former completeness, so many of his pictures and books having to be brought back from England and from Brussels.

Charming Madame Adam—possibly to divert attention from the part of Protectress of Injured Innocence so unluckily assumed by her on behalf of a semi-harbor, who appears to be partially insane as well as utterly unprincipled—had just signed a lease addressed to her, in November 1876, by Gamietta, who asserted that in December last, he was to be buried by Heaven upon his departure.

Admiral Jaurès has had a splendid State funeral, and the author of a marvellous Melbourne has just signed a lease addressed to her, in November 1876, by Gamietta, who asserted that in December last, he was to be buried by Heaven upon his departure.

Charming Madame Adam—possibly to divert attention from the part of Protectress of Injured Innocence so unluckily assumed by her on behalf of a semi-harbor, who appears to be partially insane as well as utterly unprincipled—had just signed a lease addressed to her, in November 1876, by Gamietta, who asserted that in December last, he was to be buried by Heaven upon his departure.
